

I'm not a robot

I'm Ashley M. Fox, founder & CEO of Empify and a former Wall Street analyst, Simplify Asset Management managing director and portfolio manager, joins CNBC's Dom Chu on 'ETF Edge' to discuss the fear of missing out. Over the past decade, my clients and friends have been buzzing with the question: "What should I add to my portfolio?" The fear of missing out is a real thing. A new survey from Bankrate finds that the stock market is the preferred choice for long-term investors. Markets have evolved over the years, and what used to work a decade ago is no longer working for many. If you're thinking about working with a financial advisor, make sure you watch this video. It can help you decide if you should. In the first 200+ episodes of our podcast, we have interviewed many financial advisors. Enjoy the video? Please like and share! -- Get access to every episode for free by subscribing on: Apple Podcasts, Spotify, and YouTube. Financial Advisors Join thousands of advisors and get video access not available anywhere else. Start eliminating debt for free with EveryDollar - Have a question for the show? Call 888-825-5225.