

I'm not a robot

Much of the Midwest and the Northeast is broiling or set to broil in extreme summer heat. Jeff Wagner explains how homeowners, and power companies, are preparing for extreme heat. Asst. Chief Meteorologist David Heckard looks into a High pressure system that can trap heat in the atmosphere. Meteorologist Lisa Michaels explains what a heat dome is. The hum of air conditioners will be heard in several states this weekend. CBS Boston meteorologist Eric Fisher has a look at the heat. A very large area of high pressure is building in for the weekend. Record heat? Did summer come early? Places in Iowa might reach the 80s and 90s this weekend, with over 250 records broken. Tens of millions of people from the Midwest to the Northeast are on alert as an expansive heat dome traps More than 127 million Americans from the Midwest to New England are trapped under life-threatening heat, and the