

I'm not a robot

More than 37 million Americans over 50 are single and many are still open to finding love. But here's the twist, experts say